TAKE DOWN LIBERTY STATUE OB THE JOHN TURNER STAY, SAYS COOPER UNION ORATOR.

Protests Against Exclusion of Any Immigrant on Account of His Opinions -Congressman Baker Says the Anarchist Law Was Made by the Trusts.

That the liberties of this people are endangered by the law under which John Turner, the Anarchist, is now detained at Ellis Island pending an appeal which his friends are to make to the United States Supreme Court in his behalf, was the idea expressed in the speeches made at a mass meeting at Cooper Union last night arranged by those who have become stirred up over his case.

The speakers were John De Witt Warner John S. Crosby, Henry Frank, Ernest H. Crosby and Representative Baker of Brooklyn. An audience which packed the hall and which was recruited mainly from the lower East Side cheered every mention of anarchy, but all the speakers disclaimed being Anarchists.

Turner's friends have organized under the name of the Free Speech League. A lot of them wore pictures of him. They collected $100 at the meeting with which to pay part of the expense of carrying Turner's case to the Supreme Court or appeals from Judge Lacombe's decision denying a writ of habeas corpus. John S. Orosby, the chairman of the meeting, said that Turner's detention on Ellis Island was r worse than Napoleon's captivity or t. Helena. John De Witt Warner denounced the law in a long speech in which he predicted, a one of the possible results of it, the turnin of good American citizens into Anarchists The law, he said, penalized a man's belief, and that was going back to the Inquisition days. It was the provision in the law which gave the Government the right to deport, within three years after his arrival, anyone found to disbelieve in organized government, that Mr. Warner thought would eventually make Anarchists. Said

To take a well reputed man from his famil and work and deport him on a charge the when he came here he didn't believe in o ganized government would make more an ganized government would make more and more dangerous anarchists of American citizens than you could coax here of foreign ones. Such is the powder our Government is playing with, and it is our duty to warn it. We helieve in organized government. We don't believe with Mr. Turner in even philosophic anarchy. We are ready to fight, if need be, in defence of public order, But, I take it, there is not one of us who will not resist to the denth this or any other government that attempts to punish a man for his belief and will not protect the free thought of any man against our own or any other government.

Representative Release.

Representative Baker came from Wash-Ington [not on a pass] to say that the law had not arisen because of McKinley's assas-sination, but had been made by the trusts to keep people from advocating a better social condition

"the ultimate object of which is to destroy freedom in this country."

Ernest Crosby got cheers by declaring that anarchy was "a beautful ideal," but added that it was "impossible." He read quotations from Jefferson, Garrison, Emergon and Thoreau which, he said, would have required their deportation.

"Let us take down the statue of Liberty, that hereon lie and set up an iron image.

that brazen lie, and set up an iron image with a club as 'Despotism Darkening the World,' in order that the foreigner may not laugh when he comes here.

not laugh when he comes here, was the way Mr. Crosby ended his speech.
All of the speakers took pains to disclaim being "Reds." Among the letters read was one from Edward M. Shepard, who said that he had no fault with the law, but only with the application made of it which in Turner's case, he said, was high handed, tyrapnical and stunid."

"Because Mr. Turner," Mr. Shepard wrote.

"Because Mr. Turner," Mr. Shepard wrote.

A letter from Turner in which he said he didn't mind his detention if it only resulted in the abrogation of the law provoked a Resolutions protesting storm of cheers. Resolutions protesting against the law for deporting persons because of their opinions were adopted. The vice-presidents of the meeting included William H. Baldwin, Jr., Horace E. Deming Henry George, Jr., William Jay Schieffelin, Samuel Seabury, Carl Schurz, Oswald G. Villard, Charles Sprague Smith, Felix Adler, Horace White and others. Adler, Horace White and others.

STURGIS STICKS TO KRUGER. Negatives C. S. Suggestion That He Let Tammany Make New Pire Chief.

Some of the Civil Service Commissioners think that the appointment of a new Fire Chief should be left to the new administration, lest the present administration should appear to be moved by inferior motives unbecoming a deathbed. It is well known that if Mr. Sturgis can get the eligible list in time he will appoint Deputy Chief Kruger, while if a Tammany Commissioner has the say Deputy Chief Ahearn will get the job.

The Civil Service Commissioners delegated one of their members, W. N. Dykman, to wait on Mr. Sturgis yesterday and suggest leaving the appointment to Tammany. In the event of this suggestion failing Mr. Dykman was directed to counsel Commissioner Sturgis to include the battalion chiefs in the examination. Under the civil service rules Mr. Sturgis has the power to open the examination to the battalion chiefs.

The conference between Mr. Sturgis and Mr. Dykman took place last night. Afterward Mr. Sturgis said: "I shall insist upon having an eligible list supplied o me at once. Mr. Dykman did suggest that the battalion chiefs should be included in the examination, but I am opposed to any such plan. I think it would be detrinental to the discipline of the department o allow subordinate officers to compete with their superiors, especially as the possibility would be opened of a battalion chief kipping over the heads of the deputy chiefs. It would be unwise to create such a precedent in examinations for promotion o the head of the department.

Start at Franklin Street and Make Their First Stop at Fourteenth-Interbor ough Managers Says They Are Getting Three New Cars a Day Now

The problem of providing enough cars for travel on the elevated railroad, particularly from the shopping districts, was discussed at length yesterday afternoon a conference between the State Railroad Commission and the officers of the Interborough railway company. The railway folks promised that as soon as possible they would run express trains on the Sixth avenue line for the immediate benefit of shoppers. These trains will start from the Franklin street switch and make their first stop on the up trip at Fourteenth street. Those present at the conference were

Col. George W. Dunn, Capt. Joseph N Dickey and Frank M. Baker of the Railroad Commission, General Manager Bryan and General Superintendent Hedley of the Interborough. L. C. Graff, representing the Retail Dry Goods Association; H. L. Stoddard and W. W. Mills were there to tell of the needs of the retail shopping

Those who spoke in behalf of the shoppers asked why the Interborough had not used the switch which was installed for the express train service about a year ago a short distance south of the Eighth street station. Mr. Bryan answered that it was not practicable to use that switch and the Franklin street switch at the same time in the rush hours.

He explained that the railroad was trying as fast as possible to solve the problem by running more express trains from the Franklin street switch. In view of the fact that the elevated railway's traffic was fact that the elevated railway's traffic was already much larger than that of last year and that this already heavy traffic would be immensely increased in the holiday season, Mr. Bryan issued last night a statement showing just what the Interborough is trying to do.

He said that it had been expected that ample power would be furnished by the railway's Fifty-ninth street power house before Nov. 1. He repeated the assertion that when it became apparent early in the that when it became apparent early in the summer, from the strikes that were on or summer, from the strikes that were on or threatened, that that power could not be sup-plied in time the Interborough had bought power from the Metropolitan. Mr. Bryan mentioned also the fact that of the 500 cars ordered for the subway on contracts provid-ing for their delivery by November only about 175 had been delivered.

about 175 had been delivered.

The railroad, he said, had made every effort to have all these cars delivered early, although they could not, of course, be used in the subway now. The Interborough wanted to put them on the elevated tracks as a sort of makeshift. Of those cars, 160 were already in use on the Second cars, 160 were already in use on the Second avenue line, and the old cars of the Second avenue line had been put in service on other lines, largely on the Sixth avenue.

To supply the great demand for cars, he said, the railroad people had actually taken out of the paint shops the sixty cars which were there for railting and had not which were there for painting and had put them in service. The paint shops were accordingly closed up.

Mr. Bryan said also that when they got the cars they had to suffer delays in re-ceiving the electrical equipment for them

It has been planned to run from Franklin street certain trains making the first stop at Fourteenth street, and we had hoped before now to have increased our Franklin street service, but, as before stated, we have not been able to do so on account of lack of rolling stock. The cars are being wired at the rate of three a day, and we will by Monday next be in a position to run at least four trains from Franklin street making no stops until they reach Fourteenth street. We have ample power at the present time for all of our needs, the deficiency in cars is being decreased at the rate of three a day, and from the trains which we hope to begin adding to the Franklin street service on Monday a decrease in the discomforts complained of by the patrons of the Sixth avenue line, I am sure, will begin.

PRIVATE SALES, AUCTIONS AND PUBLIC RECORDS.

The S. L. Vanderveer Farm in Flatlands, Brooklyn, Bought by a Syndicate for $365.000-Big Hotel to Be Erected by L. G. Forgotson Near Madison Square.

The principal items in yesterday's brokerage news were the purchase of a site near Madison Square for improvement with an apartment hotel and the sale of a pig tract in Brooklyn to a realty syndicate. The rest of the budget was made up of small transactions, chiefly in uptown flats and tenements. The Brooklyn deal is of a kind which, it is believed, will increase rapidly in numbers, in the near future. Activity in suburban property is certain to be unusually great next spring, partly owing to scarcity of the cheaper grades of housing in Manhattan and partly to the opening of the subway and the new East River Bridge.
